Ten Generations of Abbotts in America

(Compiled by Margaret T. Abbott)

The history of the Abbott family in America began about 1637 when George Abbot, a Puritan, came to New England from Yorkshire, England. He first settled in Roxbury, Massachusetts. Later he moved and was among the first settlers of Andover, Massachusetts in 1643.

On December 12, 1646, George Abbot was married to Hannah Chandler in Roxbury, Massachusetts by the Reverend John Eliot, the Indian missionary called "The Apostle". The record of their marriage is in Eliot's handwriting in Eliot Church in Roxbury. The Reverend Abiel Abbot's and Dr. George Chandler's genealogies of the families record that George Abbot and Hannah Chandler "probably came (to this country) on the same ship" "William (1) and Annis (Weld or Alcock) Chandler were in Roxbury in 1637 with four small children (one of whom was Hannah), all of whom had been born in England."

George "received his bride into his humble cabin which was a garrison house for many years." This house stood on the east side of the road, now Central Street, less than a quarter of a mile south of the meeting-house in Andover. Later in 1704 a larger house called the "Old Red House" was built near the spot where the original garrison house stood. Anna Wales (6) Abbott made a fine drawing of the "Old Red House." She was the daughter of Reverend Abiel Abbott (5) who was born in the "Old Red House" in 1770. Today a huge old elm tree marks the spot where this house stood before it was razed in 1858.

In 1796 another house was built on the original Abbot homestead site. "The detail of the doorway (of this house) is of special interest with its fluted pillars and Greek fret worked into the pediment." Locally, this type is called the "Hill" type of house because it is the same style as those built by William Bartlett for the founder and faculty members of Phillips Academy. The Section of Andover where the Academy and Theological Seminary were located was known as "Zion's Hill." This white house at 56 Central Street is now owned by John R. and George E. Abbott.

On the occasion of the 200th anniversary of Andover, Massachusetts a monument was erected in the South Church Cemetery in honor of George Abbot and his wife, Hannah. The monument was erected by Abbot descendants on September 26, 1843. It was cut from Quincy granite, is six feet tall and stands on a base three feet by three feet. These words were inscribed on the monument:

"George Abbot
 Born in England
 Was one of the first settlers of Andover A. D. 1643
 Where in 1647 he married
 Hannah Chandler
 He died Dec. 1681 at 66
 She died June 1711 at 82
 Their descendants in reverence for their moral worth and Christian virtues

George and Hannah Abbot had thirteen children. They were:

Our branch of the Abbot family descends from George and Hannah Abbot's sixth child, William, who was born November 18, 1657. William is described as being "a Puritan in faith and Christian conduct." In 1682 he built his home on the "uplands" in Andover. It is believed that his homestead must have been located on the west side of Main Street opposite where the Memorial Tower now stands.

On June 19 (?) 1682 William Abbot married Elizabeth Gerry, daughter of Nathaniel Gerry of Roxbury. She and her sister Sarah ~~were~~ had been sent to Andover "to be guarded in minority by Abbot or Chandler." In his "Genealogical Register of the Abbot Family", Rev. Abiel Abbot mistakenly stated that William Abbot married Elizabeth Gray, granddaughter of Mary Chilton of the Mayflower. This is definitely incorrect, and our branch of the Abbott family is not eligible for membership in the Mayflower Society.

The oldest house now standing in Andover, Massachusetts was built in 1685 by Benjamin Abbot, a younger brother of William. Benjamin built the original part of the house on land on the west side of the Shawsheen River which was given to him by his father when he married Sarah Farnum. Originally, the house consisted of one large room dominated by a huge fireplace which still stands just as it was in 1685. Above this room was a low loft which was probably used for Storage and perhaps as sleeping quarters for the children in the family.

Later the roof was raised and the loft was made into a room. Hand made bricks were placed between the inner and outer walls of these two original rooms to provide protection either against the weather or against Indian attack. There seems to be some disagreement as to which of these reasons is the correct one. These bricks were then covered with a plaster made of clay and straw. This plaster has been preserved on one wall of the loft room. A small section of the plaster has been removed so that visitors to the house may see how the bricks were placed between the walls.

Over the years the old Benjamin Abbot Homestead has experienced many changes. The west end of the house was added about 1735 and the addition on the back at the east end was built some time 1800's. ~~A kitchen and upstairs bedroom were added in the back at the west~~ A kitchen and another upstairs bedroom were added in the back at the west end of the house in the early 1900's. Recently a modern bathroom was built upstairs.

One of the most interesting features in the Benjamin Abbot house is a low wooden bed which is built into a cupboard in the living room. This bed was called a "death bed." It was taken down and used when a member of the family was sick. There was no heat in the bedrooms of the old house in the early days so the sick had to be kept in the living room where there was a fireplace to provide heat. From the rather grim name given to this bed, we may assume that many of the patients who used it did not recover from their illnesses.

At the east end of the house there still stands a quaint old well house which enabled the members of the family to draw water without having to go out of doors. This convenience must have been especially appreciated during the cold New England winters.

The old Benjamin Abbot homestead was in possession of his descendants to the eighth generation. The house no longer belongs to the Abbot family. It is now owned by Mrs. Lloyd Moraine, daughter of a member of the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities. A Visitor to Andover would certainly not wish to miss seeing this fine old house. It is so full of unusual and significant historical features. "Unexpected nooks and cupboards, old hinges, Latches and locks bespeak its age."

More is known about Benjamin Abbot than is known about his brother William. Perhaps this is because Benjamin earned for himself a rather questionable reputation as a man with a very disagreeable disposition. During the period of the witch trials that started in Salem, Benjamin Abbot charged a life-long enemy, Martha Allen, with practicing witchcraft. Poor Benjamin suffered greatly from carbuncles and these he blamed on Martha Allen. Charlotte Helen Abbott claims in her notes on the Abbott family that Benjamin's carbuncles and his bad disposition were caused by a bad liver.

One of the first problems I met in my study of the Abbott family was the question of the spelling of the family name. In some references I found the name spelled with the single letter at the end and in others the name ended with the double letter. In my visits to the South Church Cemetery I found the name spelled both ways. This difficulty seems to have come about because the early Abbots were poorly educated and were not certain how to spell their name correctly, so each member of the family spelled it in his own way.

Charlotte Helen Abbott, the noted genealogist and historian of Andover, Massachusetts, firmly believed that the double letter on the end of the name is the correct spelling. She gives an explanation for this belief in her "history of Andover" which was published in serial form in the Andover newspaper in July 1896.

The Timothy (2) Abbott heirs on the Sylvester Abbott farm, hold a most interesting deed of (2) William's of 1684 to his mother Hannah, conveying twenty acres of the upland he bought of Edward Whittington. The signatures of John Higginson of Salem, Edward Whittington, William Abbutt and John Abbut are very good. All the later spellings, even of John himself, are Abbott, in all the deeds held by these heirs, which shows that the custom of the members of this family was to use the double letters at the end.

William, (2) and Elizabeth Abbott had a son, Caleb (3) who was born in 1704. It was Caleb who left Andover, the ancestral home of the Abbots, to go to Pomfret, Connecticut, where he bought a farm in 1726. On December 3, 1730 he married Elizabeth Paine. In 1749 he moved to Union, Connecticut where he died on January 31, 1778.

William (4), the son of Caleb and Elizabeth Abbott, was born on October 2, 1745. He became a farmer in Union, Connecticut. He married Mary Coy on November 15, 1770. Mary Coy Abbott died on December 10, 1776 at the age of 25. William later married Esther Green of Wilmington, Connecticut. William served his country during the Revolutionary War.

The records of the town of Union, Connecticut, show that he joined the 22nd Regiment of the Connecticut Volunteers, was Corporal of the 5th Company in 1775 when about 30 years old, and served seven days under Captain Lawson. This was at a time of the Lexington alarm. In January 1776, he again enlisted for 12 months and served in Cambridge and New York and was made Ensign. In 1779 he was drafted and served two months at New London - was again drafted in 1781 and served one and a half months in New London.

In 1792 William and Esther Abbott moved to Cambridge, Washington County, New York. In 1799 they again moved, this time to Clinton, Oneida County, New York, where he died on July 25, 1832.

William and Esther Abbott had a son, Nehemiah (5), who was born on June 4, 1791 in Union, Connecticut. On October 14, 1803 Nehemiah Abbott married Esther Barker who was born on October 29, 1776 in Plymouth, Connecticut. Nehemiah died in Clinton, New York on January 11, 1867.

William Barker Abbott (6), the son of Nehemiah and Esther Abbott, was born on August 10, 1804 in Clinton, New York. In 1826

William Barker Abbott moved to Syracuse, New York where he married Lucretia Amanda Green of Clay, N. Y., on October 20, 1830 in the Presbyterian Church. William Barker Abbott owned and operated a dry-goods store at 4 Franklin Building. He and his family lived for a time at 37 Onondaga Street and later moved to 360 North Salina Street in the first ward. He died on August 28, 1873.

William Barker Abbott and his ^{wife} ~~son~~ Lucretia, had a son, Henry James Abbott (7) who was born in Syracuse, N. Y. on November 4, 1843. Henry James Abbott married Magdalena Walk, a Bavarian Catholic on February 15, 1872. Magdalena Walk Abbott died on July 1, 1891. Henry J. Abbott's second wife was Katherine Oswald. Henry was a collector for a brewery and was apparently very well liked. His pleasant disposition earned him the nickname "Happy" Abbott. Henry James Abbott died in Syracuse on August 22, 1916.

William Charles Abbott (8), the son of Henry James Abbott and his first wife Magdalena Walk Abbott, was born in Syracuse, New York on May 12, 1876. He married an Irish Catholic named Margaret Mulheran on June 15, 1899 in St. John the Baptist Church in Syracuse. Their first child was Margaret Marion Abbott (9) who was born on July 18, 1900. Francis Richard Abbott (9) was born on March 14, 1902. Margaret Mulheran Abbott died on March 24, 1902, ten days after the birth of her son.

After the death of his wife, William Charles Abbott (8) left his two children in Syracuse under the care of his sister-in-law Frances E. Mulheran, and moved to Buffalo, New York, where he found employment. On November 26, 1908 he married Teresa Faderl. After they had set up housekeeping at 126 North Parade Avenue, Buffalo, New York, he sent for his two children, William Charles Abbott and his second wife, Teresa Faderl Abbott, had three children. Anne Catherine was born on April 3, 1913 and died on January 6, 1936 at the age of 23. John Henry was born on September 13, 1918 and Robert William was born on October 19, 1920. William Charles Abbott (8) died on November 9, 1946.

Francis Richard Abbott (9), the son of William Charles Abbott and his first wife, Margaret Mulheran Abbott, married Theola Elizabeth Wood on June 24, 1924 in Blessed Trinity Church in Buffalo, New York. 1, Margaret Theola Abbott (10), their first child, was born on April 14, 1925 at 177 Victoria Avenue, Buffalo, New York. My sisters, Nancy Rita Abbott (10) born September 15, 1926 and Elaine Marie Abbott (10) born September 8, 1929, were both brought into the world at the same address. My only brother, Richard Charles Abbott (10) was born in the Buffalo General Hospital in Buffalo on December 4, 1935.

Coats-of Arms.

I do not believe that the Roxbury line and the Rowley line of Abbott were entitled to coats-of-arms nor do I believe they ever used such. When the Phillips and Abbott academies received the copy of the coat-of-arms which was in the possession of the heirs of Samuel Abbott and his niece, Sarah, who were donors of the two schools or of the Seminary, one of the trustees or else Mr. Bancroft, came to me to get the history of the one owned by Mr. William Abbott, who had it from his uncle, Samuel.

Most of us believe it was obtained from Thomas Houghton, a gentleman who came to Andover to make paper, and was a partner of Samuel Phillips. He supplied the plan for the Mansion House built by Phillips, and the house of Samuel Abbott, (47 Central St.,) from a model which he had made of his own manor house, near London. There is no coat-of-arms in the Houghton family, but at the time he came over, 1796-1800, a reaction in favor of things British had set in, and we get notice in inventories of mirrors, portraits and parlor furniture, and coats-of-arms.

Russell, who was in business with Phillips, had one painted, which was destroyed in the next generation, by the children. This Russell painted his "arms" upon his coach. The Wilsons adopted one. I suspect the Phillips-Coney embroidered affair is of the same date. Phebe Foxcroft apparently was entitled to such a device and it was woven into the Phillips adopted "arms." I doubt all of them, and believe that Houghton suggested all this.

Later-- I heard from a correspondant in the West that about 1725-30, an artist who came from England to earn his living by painting such devices, made one for the New Hampshire line of migrating Abbots who were well to do, and as my correspondant had a copy I was presented with a photograph of it. It had the same old design for the shield. A friend who had seen these three pears on various devices abroad, said the most ancient resembled ink pots with pens, and he feels sure that later they were changed to pears. The 1725 photograph had two olive branches crossed below the device instead of the ornate ornament of the one chosen for "Uncle Sam" Abbott.

of ANDOVER

(The genealogical tables of the Abbott family, compiled by Miss Charlotte H. Abbott, were given, by her, to Major L.A. Abbott, who included them in his 2 volume work: "Descendants of George Abbott of Rowley, Mass., and other Abbott Families."

The following data is merely a collection of random notes on the Abbott family which she may have intended to use for a later publication. I have copied verbatim . M. La M. 1935.)

Andover was settled in 1643. George (1) Abbott married Hannah Chandler in 1647. The old garrison house was built, so all think, about 1673-5, near the Phillips Manse green, in South Parish. When John (2) was married, a larger home was needed, so a two storied addition with port holes in the upper story, was built. The upper story projected over the lower.

In 1704, John (3), son of John (2), settled in the middle part of the old house- the two storied log house, 28 x 20, in which the three generations had lived from the start. A west end extension was built in 1732, when John (4), married. The east room was added in 1752.

John (5) died in this home in 1818. The next generation built the modern house, a la "Hill" style- two room front and els at the rear- as Ed. Taylor's, Wm. Gould's, Flagg's and Bancroft's.

Ben (2) Abbott made his farm where Hartwell B. Abbott owns land, though the home was perhaps somewhere else. He began his farm in 1685; his wife, Sarah Farnum, annexed the estate of Wm. (2) Ballard, and the present house was probably built upon its site, in or about 1725.

Ben (3), son of Ben (2), assisted his brother to make a farm in the outlying lands near the south part of town, the Scotland District and Merrimac Woods. Jonathan (3) had his estate on what was originally the Buswell place. This is the only farm held directly on the original Abbott grant, in the line from Ben (2). The line of Chandler Abbott, lives, I believe, on an estate bought from the Barnard heirs, but may own wood lots of the Merrimac grant.

George (2) Abbott probably built on the site of the John S. Abbott estate. The line of descent was :- George (3) Abbott and Mary Phillips; George (4); John Lovejoy (5) Abbott; George (6) Abbott; John S. (7) Abbott.

Sarah (4) Abbott married James Holt. Her daughter, Sarah (4), married Barachius (5) Abbott of the line of John (2). Their son, James (6) Abbott, came from Wilton to the James Holt place. Hartwell B. (7) Abbott was next and then James (8) and Alice (8). Now, only a girl is left on the place, with an old uncle and aunt, not in the direct line.

Notes -B-

I have not got Nathan Abbott (2),--whose line went to Concord,-- but it was west of Shawshin, and Abbott and Chandler and Dane bought up as the heirs moved. We know that Nath'l (2) was a wheelwright, and was somewhere up Baker's Brook and near the Dane lots and West Church. We get a records of scattered pastures and see that he is to fix his place.

Seven of the sons of John (2) Abbott worked years to get their lands all in a bunch-- and they continually swapped with neighbors, to get a MANOR estate, the same as we had among the last 4 generations abroad. It was the Country Squires' ambition to build up estates, add acre to acre, but the Abbotts were not so bad about marrying land, as they got NICE girls.

John (2) took Sally Barker, whose father, Richard (1) lived at the head of the Great Pond, in No. Andover, where Frank Greenwood has the site-- the corner of the Haverhill trolley road and Clark street, now. Sally got a cash dower.

Hannah (2) Abbott married her cousin, John Chandler (3), who lived at the site of the Iron Works in Marland Village. George (2) took Dorcas Graves, daughter of Mark Graves who came from Lynn and lived in the Centre on High street and owned lots to Roger's Brook-- sold out and went home to Lynn. Timothy (2) Abbott married Dorcas' sister, Hannah Graves. They all rode to North Parish, up the present Elm street, on the Haverhill Road, every Sunday, to North Church, until the South Church was built, 1710-- so courtship Graves' girls and Barker's girls over there, came easy to our boys.

William (2) Abbott took a Roxbury girl, Elizabeth Gerry-- spelled GERRY on records-- some lunatic published it as GRAY and called her a daughter of Edward Gray, of the Mayflower. She was a daughter of Nathaniel GERRY of Roxbury, and she and her sister, Sarah Gerry, were sent here to be guarded in minority, by Abbott or Chandler. Sarah married John Holt.

Nathaniel Gerry was a very well-to-do Roxbury pioneer. He had a son, William Gerry, who had no boys, so he sent to Andover and adopted the son of his sister Elizabeth-- young William (3) Abbott and made him his heir.

Sarah (2) Abbott married Ephraim Stevens the scout who came that morning that uncle Joseph was killed,--over the hill up the road from the garrison house-- to warn the boys up in the meadow to scoot home, as the Indians had been seen to cross the ford up West Parish side, from the Wamesit Village. The Indians came to avenge the deaths of the old and blind redmen in the Wamesit wigwams, who had been burned by Joseph and his fellow soldiers on the way home from Chelmsford garrison.

I have no doubt but that the soldiers were filled with hot cider and war fury. They said that they did not know that the old Indians were left behind in the village, when the friendly Indians, who had trusted the Whites, fled from their wigwams, and that when they fired them, did not realize the terrible deaths they would cause. It was the custom then, to treat with hot cider at taverns, so the deaths can be laid to liquor.

Joseph suffered justly, and we lost an Abbott branch early, a victim of the age and environment.

Ben (2) Abbott got a good deal better wife than he deserved-- a fine girl, Sarah Farnum, daughter of old Ralph Farnum and Elizabeth Holt, and oddly, he was the only Abbott who was allied to the Holt stock, early.

Ralph Farnum's place was on the site of Arthur Farnum's home, and the farthest West extension of his grant, mainly in the Farnham district, was at the Feeny place-- the Noah Abbott site. Here, Henry Farnum, brother of Sarah lived. At the time both died, he was on the Feeny place and she on the Mary Alice Abbott place she had bought for her son, Ben (3), from Ballard. Henry Farnum left for Conn. in the great migration of Abbotts, Holts and Russells, etc., to Windham Co., Conn. The Ballards and Farnums also went down there. Deacon John (3) Abbott bought the Farnum heirs out and gave the Farnum farm, in 1725, to his son, Barachias (4) Abbott.

Barachias (4) Abbott, "meek and prim", married a Holt girl, of course, a neighbor, with land, and two of his daughters married Russell neighbors, so we are a homely lot of Holt-Abbotts, with Farnham blue eyes, but the line of John (2) has the brunette Barker stock.

Thomas (2) Abbott, -on the Baker place- married Hannah Gray, daughter of Robert Gray and Hannah Holt. Down the line in the 5th generation, in the old home, another Thomas Abbott married the niece of a Gray. She afterward married Dr. Symonds Baker and at her death, the Abbott place passed to the Baker's. Probably the home is not so old as they claim, on Ben (3) site. Ben (2)'s oldest house was sold to his brother Timothy (2), by his heirs, before the widow bought out the Ballards' heirs, in 1710, or near then.

~~XXXXXXXXXX~~ Nath'l Abbott went outside Andover for a wife, took a girl from Salem Village, Dorcas Hebbert, whose folks joined the great trek to Conn. and left her alone. I suppose the boys went to Salem to trade, along the old road through Middleton- now Andover street, in Danvers, and at some tavern met Dorcas, a waitress, for all girls lived out with the neighbors then.

The Nath'l line had this girl for a start, but later, after the line went to Concord, Nath'l (3), now Capt. Nath'l Abbott of the Rangers, married, for a 2nd wife, a Ballard girl of Andover- Penelope, raised on the site of Memorial Library, and named for her aunt, Penelope Johnson, on the mother's side.

This aunt Penelope Johnson was killed in the Indian raid of 1696. She was named for Penelope Perham, wife of Gov. Billingham. The Governor owned a farm in Boxford, and all the neighbors named a daughter, Penelope, Mary (3) daughter of Nath'l (2), took a Blanchard, from West Andover, at the pond- (Haggetts) and they moved to Hollis, N.H.

Deacon Joseph (3) Abbott, son of Nath'l (2), married Deborah Blanchard and went to Wilton, N.H. Tabitha (3), married John Chandler, her cousin, and lived up in the Joshua Chandler place in West Andover. These alliances show who were the neighbors of Nath'l (2).

Jeremiah (3) Abbott struck across lots to Billerica- Tewksbury part- and took Hannah Ballard along. She was a sister to the wife of his brother, Nath'l (3). Joshua (3) struck out for Windham, Ct.

Samuel (3) married a Blanchard of West Andover and staid here. Hannah (3) Abbott, we feel sure, was the famous old maid who was a Concord school teacher, though some think she married a Kimball of Bradford, late in life.

Elizabeth (3) Abbott married Timothy Mear, who lived this side of Haggetts Pond on the Boynton place. Rebecca (3) married Abiel Chandler, and lived on the road to the Ferry, in West Andover.

Somewhere over there, Nath'l died, with his Hebbert wife, and all his children skedaddled off to Concord, N.H. and Conn. Elizabeth Abbott married Nathan Stevens, of North Andover.

Nehemiah (3) Abbott sold to his cousin, John Osgood, 1716, 4 acres of his father's estate "north of Lt. Osgood's lot, west of the Great Hill." He gave to Zebadiah (4) his homestead in Andover - W. Andover near the Boynton place and the Church - 160 acres, "W of Shawshin, E of John Foster - N of Timothy Ballard, S of Ben Abbott, Thos. Abbott, Thomas Dunn." It was back of Geo. Baker's and in So. part of town south of W. Parish - Foster grant - the buildings are all gone now. He held Common Lands - Wood Hill and Merrimac woods.

Obadiah (4) and Peter (4), sons of Geo. (3), lived on the Salem Road near John Martin. Nehemiah (3) left for Lincoln, 1721, and Zebadiah (4) and Nehemiah (5) got the homestead.

Isaac (3), b. 1699; Harvard College, 1723; was a trader and a farmer and had little land given to him. Education and money and a home was all he got, I think, by the will, so he had to marry a rich girl, and took the Lovejoy heiress. He died 1784 in the Locke house, which he built. Phebe, (4), his daughter, married her cousin, Henry (4) Abbott and lived on the site of the Andover Press. (See tale of the old lady who did not want to live with daughter-in-law and went back to the Whittier site and built a new home, later the home of Nicholas Howe.) I guess the Abbotts got the new home mixed with the old. Son, Henry (4) had the new home and she, I think, bought the old one built by Henry (3) on site of the Whittier place, 1760-1765. He bought the site of the Andover Press bldg, and Henry (4) built a house just like the one his father, Isaac, had put up, and like his wife's aunt Lovejoy's place in West Parish. - Ben Boynton's place. Zeb Abbott's place was the same architecture, low studded, square, two story house, - well inside - as in the Richardson house.

The Great Haverhill and Boston Road ran by Enoch Abbott's place to the Episcopal Church, later changed a good deal. The end of it is Chestnut street and the part near Enoch Abbott's is gone. The upper end of it is seen between Job - and Enoch Abbott's place now - Summer St. - a later road, all modern houses or houses moved there.

Sarah (4) sister to Phebe and daughter of Isaac (3) Abbott, married Lieut Timothy Abbott, (5), and lived at Sunset Rock farm with father, Asa (4). Asa's wife was the daughter of Eph (3) John (2) so the match united the John and George Abbott families.

Isaac (4), b. 1745, was a Lieut. at Bunker Hill. He was a tavern keeper after the Revolution at the home of his father. His wife, Phebe Chandler, d. 1800; he died 1836, at 91. He was blind and the estate was in debt long before he died. His son, Isaac, Jr., married a Fiske, and lived with his father-in-law, John Fiske, on the Hacket place, the one that Josiah Holt gave to his adopted son, John Fiske.

William (4), the other son of Isaac (3), left for Concord. One of the girls married Moses Bailly - so unless one of the Baileys are left - all are gone.

Deacon William Lovejoy left the site of the Locke place to his daughter, wife of Isaac Abbott, and old Pomp the slave was to be free and have a little plot of land. Rose, his wife lived there with him and friends helped them build a little cabin. The slaves lived across the street on the Moses Foster site and the house was moved away later. Old Ma'am Henry, so called, mother-in-law of Phebe, lived on the Whittier site and the home she lived in was moved away by Whittier to the Nicholas Howe site, when he built the present house. Ma'am Henry's home is now the Richard Abbot place, corner of Summer street and Punchard Avenue, which was opened later.

The Abbott Family-

Notes-3-

Somewhere else up that way, was still another old place,- ask Charlotte Baker where it stood--I feel sure it will prove to be an old Lovejoy home--not so good as the Howe house. The Lincoln house was drawn there from the Flint site- a pretty home any way, not so old as the two Lovejoy Abbott places- built later- as square houses came in after the French War.

Isaac(4)

Phebe, daughter of Wm. Lovejoy, and wife of ~~Isaac~~ Abbott, received from her father's estate: 1/2 the goods proper for a woman's use; 1/4 his books save Poole's Annotations; 1 silver spoon; 21 Lbs. money; Sarah, the wife of Tim Abbott, got the other 1/2 goods; 3 spoons; 1/4 books, save Poole's 13 Lbs. 6sh. (Witnessed by Eliphalet Pearson and Josh Holt and Zeb. Abbott)

Isaac Abbott, -grandson of Phebe's husband, d. in 1807; his father Isaac (5) and mother, Hephziba Fiske, lived on the John Fiske farm, before old John died.

In 1784, Isaac (3) and wife Lydia Cally; Henry Abbott, Jr and wife, Phebe, Timothy (4) Abbott and wife, Sarah, quit claims to Isaac (4) Abbott, Jr. for 60 Lbs. - all lands given from the estate of Wm. Lovejoy, except a piece given- the young Wm. Foster estate- later held by Pomp Lovejoy-- and they also reserve the dwelling house of Wm. Lovejoy, - apparently the old home across the street. (Old Isaac died the same year so the heirs of Lovejoy still held the old place. (See if deed of Moses Foster to Ed Foster alludes to an old house.)

War record of Lieut. Henry (3) Abbott- page 293-294 Bailey's Andover.

On Committee of Circumspection, June 1774. He died 1776, so it was probably his son, Henry (4) who led the Company to Lexington.

Henry (5) was a college man. He kept a shop with his father in the Richardson place basement. He had sold the old home and held the Chandler place, now the Burns' wooden bldg., altered by Draper for the Andover Press. After he died, his son Henry (6) W. Abbott, built a new home for the daughters, near his own. His home, the Odlin place, was moved back behind the new garage. In 1914 the girls' home was converted into an Old Ladies' Home on Pynchard Avenue.

Henry (3) is said to have smuggled goods extensively during the Revolution, but so did the Osgoods and the Phillips.

Old Sam (4) Abbott, built the home south of the Church from a model brought by Thos. Houghton of his mansion home near London, and the Mansion House was built from the same plans. For a long while, -Hannah said- the Harding family had an India ink drawing of the old homestead but it got lost. She used to play with it in childhood.

Sam(4) used to deal in West Indies sugar and often discovered stones placed in the packages to make them weigh more. He once found a sum of money, which had been stolen and secreted, and in some way, shipped out with the cargo. He had a little conscience so visited the shippers at the wharf and asked if they would allow him weight in sugar to equal the weight in stones, etc., found in the packages. They refused, saying that they took the sugar at a given weight, and he must do the same. So he returned home and pocketed the funds with a clear conscience.

Notes- A-

John(2) Abbott got the homestead of George (1). George (2) lived on the John Lovejoy site. Ben (2) had his place near uncle Wm. Chandler, at the present site of Homer Foster's and across the river to Mary Alice Abbott's. In 1661, Chandler swapped with William Ballard, and the Ballards held the place for 4 generations. In 1708-1710, Wm. Ballard (2) sold land to the widow of Ben (2) and she gave the place Ben (2) died on, to the children, who sold to their uncle Thomas (2) Abbott. The Baker place, as near as we can now locate it, is Ben (2)'s.

At the time George (1) died, Thomas (2) and Nath'l (2) had to take the homestead West side the Shawshin, as the oldest son had the lots near the home lots; Timothy (2) had to take his share way up on Sunset Rock, by the time his portion was allotted.

Wm. (2), at 19, 1675, was clearing his land, now Brothers' Field, and was building his home at Deacon Abbott's or nearby, on the mound now occupied by the Phillips' purchase. (This was sold at auction 1822- when Phillips failed- to Gould and Flagg, etc.) The three houses these men built and the home of Deacon Abbott, were probably on the site of the homestead of William (2), which the heirs sold finally, 1720, to uncle Timothy, and he, in his old age, moved to his brother, Wm.(2)'s house and gave his Sunset Rock farm to his son, Timothy (3). I have all the deeds and uncle Asa Abbott backs me up, by tradition.

John (2)'s line, John Lovejoy Abbott' widow- George (2)'s line, -and Sam H. Bailey's children, -Tim (2)'s line, -now hold the original grant lots of George (1) Abbott, and are all First Division lots, the records lost in the Indian raids in 1696, as were a good many of the 2nd Division, Proprietors' records. We have the 3rd Division book and can guess a good deal from descriptions and allusions to old deeds and early swaps.

Stephen (3) Abbott's Will ; (John (2) Abbott's son)

In the name of God Amen. I Stephen Abbot of Andover in Essex County, Prov. of Mass. Bay, N.E. Yeoman , -- sound and disposing mind, considering my frailty and mortality, do make my last will and testament---- My soul to God who gave it, my body to the earth to be decently buried in hope of a happy resurrection thro' the merits of the Lord Jesus Christ my Saviour.

Imprimis ---- Just debts and funeral charges to be paid out of my estate.

Item -- I give to my well beloved son, Stephen Abbot, all my lands and buildings on both sides the way where my dwelling house stands, except a parcel on the southerly side of my homestead with a dwelling house standing thereon which I formerly purchased of Simon Stone. Also I give to Stephen all that land lying both sides of Rogers' Brook, called my Rogers' Brook pasture: also all my lands and meadow lying at Pole Hill on both sides of Shawsheen River joining to said River, together with a piece of plow land lying on the Pine Plain: and also the one half of any out lands, quantity for quality, lying on the Sutton's Plain and in the Falls Woods, together with one half of a corn mill standing on Shawsheen River, which I have in partnership with Joseph Sibson and Joseph Abbot Jun., which shall be to him his heirs and assigns forever, together with one third part of my stock of brute creatures of every name and kind and also all my working tools and tackling and also all my cyder barrels.

George Abbott line

(Stephen (3) Abbott's Will- 2-)

Item- It is my will that what corn or grain or flax I have in my house, or what hay, corn or flax I have in my barn at my decease shall be equally divided between my son Stephen and my daughter Elizabeth.

Item- I give my beloved grandson Ephraim, son of my son Ephraim Abbot, dec., all my lands lying on the westerly side of Shawsheen River between Joseph Sibson's, Thomas Abbott's Bayly's lands with all the buildings I have standing thereon, to him, his heirs and assigns forever, he paying to my granddaughters, the daughters of my sd. son Ephraim dec., namely, his sisters Hannah, Mehitabel, Sarah, Rhoda and Abial, each of them two pounds thirteen shillings four pence, when he shall arrive to the age of twenty one years.

Item- I give to my well beloved daughter Sarah the one fifth part of my household moveables together with what I have given her before and since her marriage shall make up her portion in full out of my estate.

I give to my beloved daughter Priscilla the one fifth part of my household moveables together with the sum of 15 lbs. ⁸6s, pence which sum I order my son Stephen to pay her in one year after my decease, which shall make up her portion in full of my estate.

Item- I give to my beloved daughter Elizabeth the one fifth part of my household moveables: also I give to my daughter Elizabeth ye one half of my wood lot lying in the Falls Woods, quantity for quality, also a peece od land lying and adjoyning the northeasterly side of the parsonage land and by the way that goeth by the Pine Swamp on to Boston Road, shall be to her and her heirs and assigns forever, which shall be her portion in full of my estate.

George Abbott line

(Stephen (3) Abbott's Will. -3-)

Item- I give to my two grand daughters, children of my daughter Mary, dec'd., namely, Mary and Sarah, the one fifth part of my household moveables together with what I have already paid my daughter Mary, dec'd. shall compleat their portion in full of my estate.

Item- I give to my two grand children Elizabeth and Hannah, daughters of my son Samuel, dec'd., a piece of land lying on the southerly side of my homestead, which land I formerly purchased of Simon Stone, together with all my land lying on the Baeren Plain, so called, with part of the Pine Swamp adjoining thereto, with all my land on the Island in said Swamp, together with one half of my out land lying on Sutton's Plain, quantity for quality to them, their heirs and assigns, which shall make it their portion in full out of my estate. But if it shall please God in His Providence to remove them both by death before they arrive to the age of twentyone years, Then my will is that what I have given them shall fall to all my children to be equally divided between them. Furthermore I also appoint and implore my trusty and beloved friend, Deacon Joseph Abbot, of Andover, overseer to take the leave and improve the estate of my grand-children, namely Elizabeth and Hannah, for their income and profit until they arrive to the age of twenty one years if they survive so long, and to be honestly paid for his care and trouble out of said orphans portion.

(Stephen Abbott's Will -4-)

Item- I order my son Stephen to pay to my five grand daughters as aboved named , Hannah, Mehitabel, Sarah, Rhoda and Abial, the sum of 13 lbs. 6s.8pence when they arrive to the age of twenty-one years, to be equally divided between them.

Item- I give my son Stephen all my wearing apparel of every sort both woolen and linen and also my little fire lock gun.

Item- My will further is that my books shall be equally divided amongst all my children, except my great Bible, which I give to my grandson Ephraim. And lastly I do hereby constitute and ordain my son aforesaid the sole executor of this my last will and testament and I do refute and disannul all and every other will by me heretofore made , ratifying and confirming this and no other to be my last will and testament in witness whereof, I the sd. (Abbott's Mills property)

Stephen Abbott and Stephen Russell, yeomen, got the land on the west side of the road from the Meeting House to Abbott's Mills- passing between graveyards, thence to A. Marland's land, thence to Shawshin River and along the river 34 rds.; and Ben Kimball's 5 acres and buildings thereon. They reserved David Holt's privileges and house for life and his right to move it unless Abbott and Russell chose to buy it. They reserve Peter C. Brook's flashboards on his mill dam, 14' 10" high in all seasons, without damage from flowing premises- and a pathway from Brook's meadow into the road through gate and barn.

Elizabeth Herrick sold to Stephen Abbott 1/4 of the grist mill house and cotton factory and other buildings called Ballard Mills on Shawshin River, except a building owned by Abell and Paschal Abbott & Nathan and James, -1814.

Herrick came to Andover and lived in the home of Ephraim Abbott the miller, and owned the grist mill after Ephraim.

ates)

Jeremiah (5) Abbott, of Wilton, son of John (4) Abbott and Phebe Fiske, b. 1743, courted Chloe Abbott of Andover. He used to ride between Wilton and Andover, 45 miles, in one day, on a pillion. Mother Phebe Fiske could do it easily.

I think Ephraim (3) ^{Jn(2) Geo(1)} Abbott's estate was somewhere near Dane.
 Sunset Rock, however, was where Asa Abbott said. I had felt that Solomon Holt's estate was the one nearest; he, that Sunset Rock, and that Ephraim Abbott bought it of the Allens.
 He may have got it for his son Ebenezer, however.

Daniel Abbott surely had the Abbott estate and built near Asa Abbott somewhere, and Ephraim (3) bought land there for him. Brother Ebenezer (4) got it later; - near Allen Hinton's and Shattuck's 15 acre lot.

Joseph (3), son of John (2), Abbott, m. Hannah Allen. His son is said to have lived on the Sam Abbott place, later held by the Coburns. He was drowned 1766 and the heirs sold to Sam Abbott. Guess it must be so, as Joseph (4) went to Lancaster, so he was the only one around.

The land of Ephraim (3) Abbott lay east of John, ⁽²⁾ so was near Asa Abbott's and Abraham Graves'. Must have been near Seminary Hill and James Holt's land was part of the boundary; possibly Manning's farm and cowpens were near it, back of Professors' Row.

Stephen (3) ^{Jn(2)} Abbott is said to have lived near Prof. Porter, on the site of Prof. Phelps home. Ephraim (4) lived on old Dea.
 Peter Smith's site, before the new home was built.

The will of Ebenezer ^{Jn(2) Geo(1)} (3) Abbott, who married Hannah Furman, ^(Turner) widow of Francis Dane, does not dispose of Hannah at all. She was alive in 1761 when he died, but no stone can be found. Very likely she moved away to live with her children. She married Francis Dane in 1714, and Ebenezer Abbott in 1720.

Isaac (4) and his mother, Hannah, had the farm for life, so Isaac doubtless sold it.

Daughter Hannah, ⁽⁴⁾ who married Joseph (4), son of John (3) Abbott, of Lancaster, had the best room table and seven bannister backed chairs; 1/6 of the household goods; 13 lbs. in 2 years added to her dowry.

Mary ⁽⁴⁾ and Phebe ⁽⁴⁾ had bequests. Mary was the wife of Isaac Blunt; Phebe of Owen Griffin.

Grandson Joseph Chandler ⁽⁵⁾ had 15 s. Ebenezer's books went to all.

Church records show the marriage of Isaac (4), ^{son} of Ebenezer ^{(3) Jn(2) Geo(1)} Abbott and Hannah Furman Abbott, to Susanne Farnum, 1753; overhauled, 1754. He was propounded to recognise his baptismal, and wanted his child by Susanne, baptized.

Abigail, daughter of Dr. M. Noyes, brought charges against him on account of her illegitimate twin children. He pleaded Not Guilty, and they were summoned.

Isaac did not want the Doctor or his wife to appear at the meeting, saying that they "encouraged and emboldened Abigail to tell lies," but he did not object to the Deacon of North Church attending.

John Abbott line

(Notes--3-)

" There you have before you, the terms of one and ' tother. You are to consider whether a meeting is needed and if Deacon and wife are to come if held."

Then a meeting was called for Dec. 8. Isaac was read first. He wanted to go to the Meeting H_ouse, but if she objected to that, he would take a private house, like Dr. Joseph Abbott's (Which was half way or near the Church) , but he WOULD NOT go to her father's home.

The Dr. Noyes' paper was read, and he refused all Isaac's plans, but would appear if Mrs. Howe, (a nurse, very likely) could also come. Then he offered a room in his own home, and he nor wife need be present. The meeting adjourned without agreement.

The next time, Dr. Noyes gave in and Isaac backed out of appearing at all, and said that he would not meet her if she came alone, and he left it to the Church.

Abigail sent a letter of solemn charges , so they voted against Isaac . But although he could not join the church , they allowed his child to be baptized, on his wife's account.

WILL of TIMOTHY (2) ABBOTT

(Note)

April, 18, 1676.

Timothy (2) ^{Geo. (1)} took one of the powder horns- as he supposed- the morning that his ^{brother} went to cut elder bushes by the swamp, now Brothers' Field, but it was the horn of sand, used to whet the scythes, so they had no ammunition.

When the Indians came upon them, Joseph was bound not to be taken or let Timothy go, as he knew that he would be tortured because he was among those who burned Wamesit lodges, on their way back from the war. So he resisted, and was killed. Timothy was taken captive and kept with the Indians for a number of months. He was later brought back by a squaw, having suffered much from hunger.

WILL OF TIMOTHY (2) ABBOTT of ANDOVER, b. Nov. 17, 1663;
d. Sept. 9, 1730; m. Hannah Graves, Jan. 1, 1690.

To my only son Timothy (3) Jr., several parcels of land, all my rights and interest in lands formerly possessed by my brother, William Abbott, (2) dec., which I myself am now settled upon; together with house and barn thereto, and pieces of lots of Common Rights' land laid out to said estate which I bought of William's children, bounded and described in Proprietors' Book. Also pieces of land: 1 acre on North side of Boston Road over and against, by son's present homestead, joining the land of of Philemon Chandler; Barren Plain pasture, 30 acres, in front and adjoining land above mentioned- this which was formerly my brother William's homestead and now possessed by me. Another lot on a stretch between Thomas Johnson's meadow and Pine Swamp, on North side Holt's Hill, one on Preston Plain, I give all to my son, Timothy. Also my stock and hisbandry tools and tackle and instruments; clothing, wool and linen, etc.

He to pay my daughter Hannah 43 £bs. in 2 yrs added to the 27 £bs. already given to her, making the full sum of 70 £bs; and feather bed, in which I myself concord. And equal shares with her sister in household goods.

To Dorcas, 21 £bs. in two years, added to 48 £bs, 10 sh, she has already been given, making 70 £bs. To all 3 children, my Books, Money etc, divided.

Nathan (6) Abbott courted Hannah Clark, (she later married a Heyward) and one night, when on his way back from the Clark's farm he stoned a skunk- and had to bury his good clothes. This greatly pleased his Uncle Nathan (4) who hated him. Old Nathan was very cross, was lame and walked about with a crutch, and Nathan (6), when a small tot used to delight in running between his legs and upsetting him.

One day when Nathan (6) and his brother Job (6), were running, Job could not keep up to Nathan, and old Uncle Nathan tried to hinder him by striking at him with his cane. He quit it, however, when young Nathan threatened to cut his legs off.

Nathan and Job were one day trying a contest by stooping down and reaching backward, behind outstretched legs, to see which could make a mark further behind. At the critical stage, old Nathan, seeing his favorite Job, about to be beaten, struck young Nathan on the nose.

Anna Ballard, wife of Job (5) Abbott, , (his cousin), was a niece of the wife of old Timothy Ballard , who owned the Ballardvale mills. She lived with her aunt and Timothy, as one of several adopted children, as the old folks were childless.

Anna's four daughters, Fanny,(6), Mary (6), Sarah(6) and Lydia(6), came to Andover and went to work in Dea. Paschal Abbott's mill in Abbott Village. The deacon fell in love with Lydia.

Ben Downes, one of the spinners, married Fanny.

William B. (6)^{Job 5-4-3) Ben(2)} Abbott owned a very beautiful home opposite the bridge in the Village; now Herrick's store. Herrick lived in Peter Smith's old home. The next house in the Village, going towards the Ridge,- with a long flight of steps between the two, both built up against the bank--was Abbott's store. Abel and Paschal lived in the third of the detached houses, occupied 1870 by the Bruce family. Abbott's mill was near the Village.

My Own Notes on the Family

Sam'l Phillips' sister, one of the old maids of No. Andover, was a feeble child and the mother could not nurse it. My grandmother, Hannah Russell, wife of Nathan (6) Abbott, took the babe and raised it until it was out of danger. It was not Anna Morrill, the oldest child, who lived.

Old Dorcas Abbott, great grandmother of Hannah Flint, a descendant of Sam'l (3) Phillips and 2nd wife of Jonathan (5) Abbott, lived in the old Stephen place with her son, Capt. Stephen, and used to sit by the kitchen fire and blow the old bellows. ... And ... father used to go over there evenings, and heard her prophecy that in the five generations from her day, all three of the adjoining Abbott estates would be in the hands of people not bearing the name of Abbott, and mostly strangers to the land. All has come true in 1906. Edwin Abbott only son of young Stephen, who got the estate from his uncle Stephen, has died, 1905.

The farm entailed over the head of his father, must go back to the heirs who will sell it no doubt, at death of Stephen, as he has only a life interest,

Old Dorcas had a back room in the house, and when Phebe Sibley's beaux came to call, she would not go to bed until they were gone. One night the beau went home early and Phebe went to bed, forgetting to tell the old lady that the coast was clear. Poor old Dorcas sat on the stairs all night, waiting and listening.

One of the Maine cousins who came visiting was very tall and wore a tall silk hat. Sam Abbott, brother to the girls, hid the hat in a dark cupboard under the stairs. The visitor had to borrow a hat to wear home, and the "topper" was not discovered until a grand clean up, 40 years later.

(Ben Abbott family)

(My Own Notes)

Poor says that Nathan⁽⁶⁾ Abbott who sold the home he owned to John Morse and went down to Maine, was a son of David⁽⁵⁾ Abbott and Priscilla Chandler, and a grandson of old Jonathan (4); and that David and Priscilla lived on a farm her father, David (3), gave him, (just as Joseph Shattuck said), and had a house built for Jonathan (6).

He (Poor) said that old Jonathan (4) had five sons: Jonathan (5); David (5); Nathan (5); Ben(5) of Holden; Splomon(5). So far as I can see, a Joshua does not seem to come up anywhere.

Jonathan (4) gave each son 50 acres of land, all within two miles of the rest. He held 1000 acres himself to give away.

Priscilla Chandler was the dau. of Nathan Chandler and Phebe Abbott and their home was where old Artemus Brown lived, 1862.

Nathan Abbott said that Ezra (6) Ames of Haverhill was his on the Chandler side. cousin. This is likely, as Ezra Ames' mother was a Chandler.

Nathan came to West Parish Church, June 1829. He built a stone house, (or store)(rather illegible in Poor's notes) . He kept store for three years and then sold out to A. Holt. Holt, in turn, kept the store three years and then moved away.

Nathan Abbott tended store for Deacon Amos Abbott for five years before he set up for himself.

(My Own Notes)

The homestead of Jonathan (3) Abbott, (Ben (2)), was a log-house which was torn down and replaced by a frame house, which finally became an old wash-house. This house was where the Arcadians lived when in Andover. It was opposite Phebe Goldsmith's place in the fields near the Ray place and the old cellar hole can be found now, they say. I concluded that it was then moved to a new site or that Jonathan lived there himself and built farther south and west, later.

The wash-house was moved off the site of the present Stephen D. place after the third house was ready to go up. The third house stood a little down the street back of the wash-house site, nearer Nathan B's old red house and on the hilly part of the land above the orchard. (Hunter may know where it stood).

This was the 3rd of all; and the fourth house, built back on the present site after they moved the wash-house off to the fields, was erected by Capt. Stephen Abbott in 1829. Hervey, of West Parish was the builder.

Jonathan (4), son of Jonathan (3) ^{Ben(2)} moved to Lunenburg. When he came back he lived in Ballard Vale. He then returned to the homestead in the third house built in the back lot. He was a handy man and soon there was a fourth house on the site of the present one, before 1829, (there's a fifth house, in all.)

Jonathan (6), (she thinks), had a separate house from Jonathan (5), and thinks it stood on the Stephen (6) site, and that James (3) and James (4) died in the old 3rd home on the back lot. Also, that James (5) had a house on the wash-house site, and that Stephen (6) built the 5th house in 1829., which had a square front and leanto.

(My own notes)

Hannah Danforth, wife of David (3) Abbott, who was born Aug. 20, 1698; m. Mar. 26, 1718, and d. 1788, age 91,- I find listed in Andover, as of Billerica. She was the daughter of Samuel Danforth, and was a cousin, on the Crosby side, to Sarah, wife of Ephraim Abbott.

See what Essex Sessions, Vol.13, pg. 28, has to say :Ben Abbott - Martha Carrier case. Farrar mentions Ben (2) in Witch Trials and says he was referred to in Calep's " More Murders "

David (5) Abbott married Priscilla Chandler. They had :
David (6) , b, Dec. 1792, m. Mary Grant; son Charles Wallace (7)
m. Mary Jane Burns.

Capt. Jonathan (6), b.1796; m. Lydia Phelps; ch. Charles (7);
and Edmund (7).

Ezra (7), b.1801; lived on Ben Boynton place.

Joshua (6), b. 1806

Herman (6), -; m. Mary Gray

The line of Capt. Jonathan Abbott best known, is that of Nathan Chandler Abbott, who lived so long in West Parish on the old place, and married Hannah Ballard Grant, sister of my aunt Margaret Luscomb.

An account book of Samuel Woodbridge, a tailor of Andover, who made clothes and swapped with the neighbors, has the notation : " Moses Abbott, Sr., after 1775, comes often for breeches for Moses (6), Noah (6) and Enoch (6), and for jackets for the three biggest sons."

Moses held a note against Woodbridge that could not be found . (Moses was not a careful man. His family lost the deeds of the home, and recently, three generations later, they were never recorded.) But Sam Woodbridge was honest, and said that he owed the money and it was included in the balance in favor of Moses, when the account was settled, Oct. 30, 1799.

Asa Abbott, in a talk with Poore, on Moses (6) Abbott's ~~Abbott's~~ estate " near the turnpike", said that the land was once owned by John Chandler, and that a son of David Chandler who was in the Revolution- 1776- died there, 1806.

Abbott Wallace and David Foster lived sometime on the Moses (6) Abbott estate somewhere, and the oldest house stood across the street from the present house and was occupied when the Turnpike was built. It was later pulled down. (At that date the lot across the street was owned by the Phillips estate and when Holt's father bought it in 1822, at ^{the} auction, Moses (6) Abbott and Joseph Lowe later bought lots. By some error, the lot granted to old Holt is described as bordering Lowe's while Lowe's lot is described as being back of the Blake house somewhere, and north of Moses Abbott.

(Notes - Moses Abbott-2-)

I feel sure that either the man who drew the deed for record got mixed, or the two men, Moses and Lowe swapped the lots they had bid in and never got the deeds recorded, and they were only traded. Maybe Lowe promised to get all the deeds recorded and neglected it- he was an awful tricky man anyway. Moses (6) paid taxes on the land all his life, and also on other lots that came to him by legacy, 1826. So did Moses (7) and the heirs ever since, which is proof they actually did buy it, and the deed to Bradford Lewis describes this lot as of Moses Abbott heirs, and in 1863 Asa Abbott said so also.

John Chandler was a shoemaker. A fiscal mortgage of the place he owned was made, said Asa Abbott, to Jonathan Swift, the tanner. Jonathan Swift never lived on Central St. He then said that Moses Abbott came into possession of the Chandler Estate after his son, Moses was born, (1802). He had first one half and Phillips owned the other half. I could not find when it was transferred at all, any time than the records of the auction sale, 1822.

Another note I had of Poor, said Moses Abbott's father, Moses (6), who bought the lot we are after, 1822, lived in an old house called Gov. Phillips' Store and that ^{the} J. Alvin Farleys lived there in 1860.

Moses (7) and his sister and Martha Frye Abbott were born there. After that date, 1802, Moses moved to the Chandler home. (Where did the home Alvin Farley live in in 1860, stand?) All the rest were born in the Chandler home. I conclude that is the one held by the heirs now.

(Notes- Moses Abbott -3-)

Moses m. Tryphena Montague Bowman, of Amherst Mass. After the birth of Oramel G., William Francis, Hubbard Moses and and George Bowman Abbott, Moses decided to adopt a girl , as he had no daughter. The adopted child was Marion Edna, b. in Sumner, Mass., Aug. 23, 1842, the daughter of Carter Fairchild and Miranda Clapp. I wonder if she ever knew where the deed was put.

An Irish boy, Richard Murphy, from the State Almshouse, lived with him. Came at 14, in 1859. Later, Richard, who was very popular and joined with the others in South Sunday School, etc., had a hotel in some suburb of Boston, and was quite a man. I think he is dead, now.

Moses (6) worked for Gov. Phillips for 11 years and helped set out the trees around the Mansion House. When somebody died, Phillips very likely helped Jn. L. Taylor to drape his trees between the Mansion House and his printing office, with white and black cambric.

Moses held a commission as Ensign, Mch. 5, 1760. Also Ensign Jonathan Holt, of the 2nd Military Co. of Andover, under Capt. George Abbott- ye 4 Reg. of Militia; Col. George Abbott. He had some old money- 1/2 dollars dated Feb. 17, 1776; one Nov. 15, 1805, etc.

Barachias Abbptt (4) bought his home from Joseph Faulkner, Nov. 14, 1730 and settled upon a site east of the Seminary, now occupied by Noah Abbott's widow. How came Joseph Faulkner way over there when his lots lay in North Parish ?

His account of the death of Rhoda, who fell into a kettle of hot suds and d. 1749, at 2 yrs., differs from the records, so perhaps another Rhoda was born later.

Ben Abbott line

(Notes- Moses Abbott -4-)

Capt. Moses (5) Abbott was a surveyor and a schoolmaster. While in the Indian War he kept a journal of his journey. A Boston man borrowed it ^{and it} ~~was~~ lost. Queer- maybe some Society snapped it up.

Old Moses⁽⁶⁾ "melted", before he worked for Phillips, so was in a foundry somewhere. He was in Salem a while, and came to the farm when Moses lived, in 1809; so maybe he did live on old Chandler's, across the street, first, between 1802-9. His wife's mother, a widow of Ben Frye, occupied part of the house. Was she the Martha Abbott who planted the butter-nut tree, or was it young Martha Frye Abbott, the daughter ?

John Chandler owned the place near, and had a son William and a son George. This George worked for Capt. Thomas Fester many years.

Sam Chandler, a son, was a ship carpenter and worked in the Navy Yard at Charlestown

Pedigree of Father: Wm. Bowman, son of W. Bowman of West Parish, and Susanne Herier, of Brookfield, Mass, who lived to be 100. Her mother, Tirza Hubbard, daughter M. Caleb Hubbard and Tryphena Montague, died 1850, aged 96; b. 1754. Was at Bunker Hill. Moses Abbott's grand father was 90. Long-lived on both sides of the family. Henry Holt, father of Elizabeth, -the wife of Capt. Moses Abbott, - was 95. This Moses had a good memory for a family historian.

Sam (4) Abbott, a bachelor, died at Lake George. He was uncle to little Sam (5) who was killed. (Tradition in the Abbott family, is that SAM was an unlucky name. The Stevens line have had it always, and so have the Phillips.) The child boarded with his aunt Sarah, who married Joseph Stevens. Guess it was not a suitable place for the chappy anyway, as Major Jo--- S--- was a pretty job lot!

Maj. Stevens lived with his mother then in the house opposite the Baptist Church, and had money. He lost it all later in ventures in Md- Ohio Company, etc. "Aunt Stevens " died without heirs, save one Jo, and after his death the estate was bought up and fell to the Abbott heirs. Guess they bought the place; Capt. Stephen Abbott very likely got it.

Joseph Stevens used to keep a rag exchange here, at the last of his trading, and he dickered with the Paper Mill in Marland Village. Wm. Stevens was obliged to take boarders to keep above water.

Lieut. Henry Abbott ^{Geo. (2-1)} (3), born in Andover June 12, 1696, a sadler, married Mary Platts, Jan. 3, 1722; he died Feb. 3, 1776.
She died Aug. 1784, age 84. They had:

Henry ⁽⁴⁾; m. Elizabeth Gibson; d. 1805. His 2nd w. Phebe Abbott.

Lydia, (4) b. 1723; m. Isaac Joshua Lovejoy. They lived at the foot of High St., (where Billy Brown lives now) though at that time High St. was called Lovejoy's Lane. Joshua's father lived in what is called the Locke Place, and also owned a house across the street, where Moses Foster lives now.

Isaac (4), b. ; m. Charlotte Houghton; d. 1834.

Dorcas (4), b. 1729; m. Benj. Butler of Hudson, N.H. - called Nottingham West, in 1754.

Mary (4), b. Aug. 13, 1737; m. Deacon Thomas Hovey of Dracut, March, 22, 1759.

Henry Abbott's brother, Isaac ⁽³⁾, lived on the section owned by the Whittiers, and the land ran down across the back of the Parker estate clear out to Jo. Richardson's Corner, where the Andover Press now stands, and up Bartlett St. to top of Hilly Pasture and wood lots, where the Public Schools stand:

The land originally belonged to the George (2) Abbott division. Henry got a good deal more than Isaac, who chose an education, and got cash and a horse and turned trader.

Isaac ⁽³⁾ married Phebe Lovejoy and got a pull with the Lovejoy lot who owned all the rest of the land across the road. He d. 1784.

(Isaac Abbott, con't)

(3) Isaac ^{(4) Nehemia (3) Geo (2-1)} shared with Zebadiah Abbott, the estate of Capt. William Lovejoy. Zebadiah lived on the West Parish new estate, while Isaac had the old homestead. He pulled down the old estate home, and moved and moved away the other across the street, and built the present square house, it is said, about 1740. There is no house 200 years old in Andover save Henry Heyward's, north parlor, and the Isaac Goldsmith's place, and maybe the middle of John Lovejoy Abbott's house, and the old Bradstreet house in No. Andover. Perhaps the Atkins' place may go back to 1725, or the place where Wm. Foster lives and Enoch Frye's place.

I place them, and Timothy' Abbott's place, at 1725- no earlier. Well, uncle Isaac had a hired man, Thomas Hovey, evidently working his way to an education, Very likely Isaac, a Harvard man himself was training him. Isaac's second wife, Lydia Calley, was daughter of old Schoolmaster Robert Calley of Charlestown. They needed a man in a hurry, very likely to teach Latin, and Tom was a student and filled the vacancy, maybe getting ready for college himself, 1759.

He married Mary Abbott, from across the street, and cut short his career as a professional man, and buried his talents in Dracut, as a teacher, very likely.

Mary Abbott's brother, Henry, ⁽⁴⁾ got the estate. He married Elizabeth Sibson, whose father owned the old Ballard place then, where the Public Library stands. Henry lived on the Whittier place with his father; and died 1805.

George Abbott line

(3)
Henry had two sons: ^{Henry and} Capt. Isaac, who had a packet which ran between Boston and Savannah. Isaac married Charlotte Houghton, - grandma Hayward's aunt, - and I have heard her tell of a trip to Savannah on Abbott's boat. He also was in the East India service, and after Charlotte Houghton died on the Mississippi River on a trip she made with him, he died, in 1834.

He gave all his possessions to his brother, Henry's folks, and Charlotte Abbott on Punchard Ave., has a house full of it still.

I was named for this Charlotte Houghton and so was the other Charlotte Abbott, as the lady I would have had for a mother, if she had not died, was Charlotte Houghton's niece, and named Charlotte Hayward.

Charlotte Hayward, was Charlotte Houghton, born in London, and named for Princess Charlotte. (If the gentleman ever visits Andover, I wish he would call on the last of his ~~line~~, Miss Charlotte Abbott on Punchard Avenue. I can show him where Henry (3) lived.)

After Henry ⁽³⁾ died, in 1776, his widow took her share of the estate and built a new home on the site of the Whittier place, - maybe the site of the Andover Press. It was the house old Nicholas Howe lived in, and stood, I think, where Richard Abbott's place stood, just back of the Whittier site. An older house they moved back and the slaves lived there.

I feel sure that Phebe Abbott, who was second wife of Henry (4), -brother to Mary- built the house where Jos. Richardson lived so long. She had plenty of money and was the daughter of Isaac Abbott across the street. They built the new house about 1776-(1765-1770).

(Henry Abbott, con't.-4-)

Henry⁽⁴⁾ had a West India goods shop in the basement, and Capt. Isaac, his brother, kept it filled with straight goods. After the Revolution, some good liquor, etc., was brought through on the sly, as did all dealers of his day who believed in Free Trade. (so do I).

(Find deed 1765. Henry (3) bought 8 acres, from Chestnut St. to Elm St., ran to Summer St. east, and pretty much all out to Central St., west. Built house in 1765.)

Henry (3) lived in great state for his day, and had the first carriage, it is said, in Andover. He was rather a domineering party, and was called " Surly Henry". His grandson Henry (5), brother to Capt. Isaac, was very slow- as you recall. We called him " Pumpkin Seeds",- I don't know why. He and his son, Henry (6), were very parsimonious., you recall. He sold the Richardson place and lived with his son, Henry W., last of his life. He had a store where Campion and Gleason have opened now, in the Bank Bldg. I forget who owned the old block. An Osgood built it they say, in 1812, then went to No. Andover.

Henry found it a good opening, and I think the Valpey & Richardsons took the old Henry (4) home at the same time. Some say Henry (3) built the new home, and that daughter Elizabeth Sibson and daughter - Phebe Abbott, the new wife, lived there together, but could not prevent old Mary from ruling the roost,- so they agreed to give Henry the house, and he built a new one for himself back on the old site, I think about 1776.

Priscilla Abbott, daughter of Deacon Isaac (4) Abbott ^(and Phebe) -the tavern keeper, -was born June 1, 1770. When asked by Gen. Washington, on his trip here ^{Nov. 5,} ~~on~~ 1789, why she did not marry, said, " I can not find any here to have me ."

Gen. Washington said, " The young men here have a different taste than I have."

(Squire Sam Abbott, her uncle, wanted John Kneeland to marry her, but he refused and married an Austin girl, so lost the Abbott estate that was promised him. It went to the Seminary later, when Priscilla Abbott
1787 was 50. She was Jn. Kneeland's ~~second~~ second wife.

Poor says that as Dea. Isaac Abbott was going across the beach at Charlestown, he was wounded, and fell from loss of blood. John Barker of No. Andover, a stout man, carried him off on his shoulder.
His uncle kept him from going again.

--

Col. George (4) Abbott died 1776. On Mar. 1, 1777, Joshua Holt, Administrator, sold 12 acres to the Seminary, - or to Rhillips- later belonged to the Seminary, and was the Salt Box Estate on Phillips St.

Jan. 18, 1782 Phillips bought of Wm. Foster, 3 1/2 acres, where the Library stands and 1 1/2 acres for the ^mansion House site.
The Stowe House and Mansion House were on the old Chandler pasture.
The first academy was built on the site of the Library, it is said, so the Abbotts did not hold very much save the west side of the road.

Notes- George (2) Isaac (3)/⁽⁴⁾Priscilla (5).

Priscilla Abbott's Bible.

In an old Bible in the Public Library, which was to be turned over to the Historical Society, was John Kneeland's tribute to Priscilla; on the 1st leaf, it says-

"Priscilla Abbott, the gift of her friend, Ebenezer T.- Andover."

The book was published, 1798. It was perhaps from some old friend of the family, or some admirer of Priscilla. Opposite the Testament title page-

"Priscilla Abbott, born June 1, 1770; married to John Kneeland, Esq., by the Rev. Justin Edwards, June 6, 1820. After a few days sickness with lung fever, on Wednesday morning, Feb. 17, 1830, at half past four o'clock, she died, aged 59 years, 8 months, 17 days. Friday afternoon, Feb. 19, her mortal remains were interred in the tomb in burying ground at South Parish, Andover. May this affecting instance of God's Holy Providence be sanctified to her husband and venerable father, now passed his 85th year, and family connections and numerous friends of the deceased."

The Bible was sent to me by Nellie V. Osgood, Box 77, Raymond, N.H., who came here to visit the Lindsays. She was in the family of the 3rd wife of William Abbott- grandson of Deacon Isaac Abbott and nephew of Priscilla. His father was Priscilla's brother, William, who married Rebecca Bailey.

He probably got the Bible after Kneeland died, or from Kneeland. At his death, as he was childless, relics were distributed among the Bailey relatives, mainly.

With the Bible, Miss Osgood fetched an old church book kept by Deacon William Lovejoy, 1740, of the expenses of the communion service and many contributions to same, and other things. I gave this book to the clerk of the church.

The Bible I turned over to the Historical Society, and one evening we were invited to a "Faggit Party" at the very inn where old Isaac and Priscilla Abbott used to live. I took the Bible along and one of the parsons read aloud from it, the "Prayer of Moses".

That night, after I got home, I looked up the death of Priscilla, and as I tied up the parcel to return it to the safe, I discovered that we had met and read that grand old psalm, on the anniversary of the very hour that she had joined her ancestors- Feb. 17, 1830. A pretty tale, that!

Washington, Priscilla and the Seminary are all things of the past, now, with us- but the old home of Priscilla's youth and the Kneeland Cottage where she went to live with her blind father, at the invitation of John Kneeland, and later married John, - are still standing, and in good repair.

NOTES

Major Abbot places the estate of George (2) Abbott "of Rowley" - over North Andover, near the John Bannon place, (1900), on the road from Kittredge's to the trolley tracks. I think he means south of the cemetery, beyond the wall - he says it was the left half of the road, running north from the old cemetery, so it was the old road then, I conclude. It does go back to Mrs. Way's, so I believe that was the oldest road.

He said the Sutton place came next and on the north. Sutton's, I think, was bought up by George Abbott or Bradstreet. Geo. Abbott, Sr. came next, and next, Dane, the minister, so I conclude both Dane and George Abbott died over in North Andover.

The homestead of George Abbott, Sr., according to Major Poor, was bounded north by the cemetery and Meeting House green - if so, it would throw the whole section towards the Center - east was the road past Kittredge's, supposed to have been held then by George (2) Abbott and son, John (3). John Aslebe's lot lay South of this, toward the Center, and West of it lay Bradstreet's and John Frye's land.

George (2) bought the land of Job Tyler, 1662, and John (3) inherited it and sold it to John (2) Aslebe, 1696, when Abbott went to Sudbury. Geo. (2) Abbott got a 2nd lot, South of the cemetery, foot of the Kittredge place, - less the little triangle made by extending the graveyard wall on the South to the road to meet the East wall. This they called Meeting House Green, 1662.

The graves were first made near the church and east side - same as in St. Peter's Church in Salem. The SE cor. of the cemetery lot was the place the church stood. George (2) Abbott was the caretaker.

John Stevens' grave was south of the wall to the church door, according to Major Abbott, who also declared that the old road from Kittredge's to the Way's, was not there in 1696.

He said the east bds. of Tyler's lot, was a Common, and in 1696 a road through was made and called the East bds. The road was between the houses of Phillips and Bradstreet, now the Trolley track. Tyler's first lot was north of Bradstreet's and south of Sutton's and next beyond Sutton came Geo. Abbott Jr., and next Dane - all on the trolley road and East side.

The second purchase of land, probably also Tyler's, was South of the cemetery, a 6 acre tract.

Simon Bradstreet sold to Button, his lot, first of all, and a home on it. He had George Abbott, Sr. on the north, and Geo. Abbott, Jr. on the south, so I conclude Geo. Abbott, the tailor, lived opposite the graveyard, East of Bradstreet.

John built on a lot his father gave him, now East side the road to Way's and near, or a part of the Kittredge estate. Geo. Abbott, Sr., was back of Bailey's - probably the next place - Ray, (Rea) I think it is, back of the old Franklin Academy site.

In 1658 Sutton got his - a tract of 8 acres - described as having Geo. Abbot Sr., on N and Geo. Jr., on S - and abuts on street to W. He had 48 acres upland belonging to said homestead, over on the Shawshin River, W side - and 6 acres of orchard. In 1663, Richard Sutton, husbandman, sold out to Geo. Abbot, Jr., 2 parcels of land - ox land - W side Shawshin River - 30 acres, on Little Hope Brooke, - Geo. Barker estate - 18 acres W side of a meadow of Geo. Abbott's that he bought lately of Bradstreet - and all wood and timber.

George (3) Abbott built a house on 18 acres his father Geo. (2) gave him while alive - and Woodchuck meadow was his. John (3) got the homestead and Shawshin River meadow. Nehemia (3) took 6 acres, upland and meadow, and an acre stretch of upland and meadow which seems to take him to the South parish, finally, for he helped start Church there 1709-1710.

The home of George (3) was also somewhere on the present Kittredge estate. Uriah (4) got the homestead.

Notes-2-

Nehemiah (3) Abbott sold to his cousin, John Osgood, 1716, 4 acres of his father's estate "north of Lt. Osgood's lot, west of the Great Hill." He gave to Zebadia (4) his homestead in Andover - W. Andover near the Boynton place and the Church - 160 acres, "W of Shawshin, E of John Foster - N of Timothy Ballard, S of Ben Abbott, Thos. Abbott, Thomas Dunn." It was back of Geo. Baker's and in So. part of town south of W. Parish - Foster grant - the buildings are all gone now. He held Common Lands - Wood Hill and Merrimac woods.

Obadiah (4) and Peter (4), sons of Geo. (3), lived on the Salem Road near John Martin. Nehemiah (3) left for Lincoln, 1721, and Zebadiah (4) and Nehemiah (5) got the homestead.

George Abbott of Andover, a shoemaker, being through the goodness of God, of sound mind and memory, yet through age and bodily infirmity being put in mind of my mortality, I make this, my last will and testament;

First- I commend my spirit into the hands of God, imploring His mercy through Jesus Christ, the son of His love, in whom He is well pleased - and my body to a decent burial, and for the disposal of my outward estate which God hath been pleased graciously to give me, my mind and will is as follows :

To my loving wife Hannah Abbott, yearly, 8 bushels of Indian Corn; 2 bushels of Rye; 1 bushel of Wheat; 2 bushels of Malt; seven score lbs. of Meat- Pork & Beef; 6 lbs. of Flax- good- 6 lbs. of Sheep's wool; 6 lbs. cotton wool; 20 lbs. of passable money; 4 bushels of Winter Apples; 1 bbl. of Cider; use of two acres; a house; firewood to be brought home and cut fit for the fire; her corn also to be ground and brought home to her as she has occasion for it,-and it is my will and mind that she be carried to Meeting when she desires. And also I give her the care of so much of my household stuff as she has occasion for while she continues my widow, and $1/3$ part of household stuff I give her, to be at her sole disposal, and it is my will that the above said particulars respecting my wife, be faithfully performed and paid by my executor, hereafter named. It is to be understood also, that my wife is to have the above mentioned annuity only during the time of her being my widow.

To-

My son, George, 5 LBS. in money or promise bills of credit, besides which I have given him already- the above 5 LBS. to be paid by my son Obed within 1 yr. of my death.

To my son Jacob, 15 LBS. in money and bills of credit to be paid by my son Obed in 3 yrs. after my death. I have done considerable for him already.

To my son Moses, 5 LBS. in money or bills of credit, to be paid by Obed within 2 yrs. of my death- have given him considerable.

To my son Obed, 10 acres of upland and meadow lying to the eastward of my land and Woodchuck Hill, and a piece of meadow along Joseph Martins. A 5 acre right of upland joins sd. meadow- and on Solomon Martin's land- also 1/2 meadow lying southerly side of Green & Woodchuck- and it is my will that Obed yearly enjoy all the apples that grow upon the scattered trees of my pasture, till he has apples of his own.

To my son Peter, 10 LBS. besides what I have given him, in money or bills of credit to be paid by my executor.

To my 2 daughters, Sarah and Hannah, 25 LBS, apiece in money or bills, to be paid on marriage or when they come of age, and this done by my son Obed in money or bills, if my daughters shall choose it, but if not, they shall have the liberty to take all the household goods which I have not otherwise disposed of, in lieu of 10 LBS. of sd. legacy. If they choose to have money rather than household goods, sd. goods to be divided between Uriah, Moses and Obed.

It is my will that my two daughters have the liberty of my house while they are unwed and it is my desire that the two sons last mentioned, consider their youngest sister, she being weakly- and be particularly kind to her on that account.

I give to my/^{grand}daughter Elizabeth Foster, daughter of my dear daughter Elizabeth, 20 LBS. to be paid by the executor, and to my son Uriah the whole or any part of my real and personal estate which has not been otherwise disposed of.

Uriah appointed to be executor, and he is to pay my funeral charges and just debts, and I revoke all former wills and declare this my last will and testament.

Oct. 1, 1724- 1st yr. reign of George, King of England, Scotland and Wales

Mary (3), b. 1696; d. 1707

James (3), b. 1700

Stephen ⁽²⁾ Barker and Mary Abbott were the first couple married by Thomas Barnard. (There was a Stephen Barker, ^{see} Miss Bailey), prominent in politics, but I do not know which line he was in. One Capt. Stephen Barker, a lawyer, married the hired girl and took the home farm but probably both of these were later Stephens.)

When George Abbott's property was divided and the girls all made their marks i.e. 'X', Stephen Barker could write. My grandmother, Priscilla Osgood, daughter of Stephen's sister Hanna, who married Capt. Chas. Osgood, could write, and made a will.

In 1723, Lt. Stephen Barker and Capt. James Frye with 30 men go up and encounter the Londonderry settlers. (see Bailey book).

In 1724, Lt. Stephen leads the petition for settling ^{off} from Haverhill, Methuen, beginning at Hawkes brook. Ebenezer, his brother, was the first selectman. Zebadia, son of Stephen, seems to be keeping school in his uncle's house. He gets 2L 10s, in 1733. Either a brother Ebenezer is with him or an uncle, much older.

THE ABBOTT FAMILY

(On the Emigrants)

Sam(1) Abbott, of Surrey, England, had a son, Meurice(2), resident of Guilford, who married Alice ----, of Guilford. She died in 1606. Their son Richard (3), of Guilford, married Edith Bannister. They had Richard (4), of Guilford, born 1623, who married Anne, daughter of Drew Pickens of Brambletye; and Dorothy, who married Jn. Bolson of Farnsboro, South Downs.

Meurice (2) had : George (3), Archbishop of Canterbury; Sir Meurice (3), of London, (knighted by King Charles), who married, first, Joane, daughter of George Austin, of Guilford. The second wife was Margaret, daughter of Bartholemew Barnes. They had:

Bartholemew (4)

George (4)

Edward (4)

Margaret (4)

Marie (4)

John (3) Abbott, who married Sibille, daughter of ---Tegge, of Stockwell, Surrey, had a son John (4); and a daughter, Sara (4), who married Rev. Saye. Their daughter Demaris (5), married Archbishop Kingsley of Canterbury.

Richard Abbott took oath and sailed in the Peter Bonaventure for Barbadoes in 1638, at the age of 20.

Tradition has it that Elizabeth Abbott, who married Gabriel Harrin, at Guilford Ct., March 3, 1654, was on a vessel from England, with the emigrants bound for New Haven. The vessel put in to Pequot Harbor for shelter from the storm, and anchored near the lone dwelling of ^{Ha}rrin, on the riverside at Guilford.

Gabriel went out in a fishing vessel and invited the folks ashore. The whole party landed and spent the night in feasting and fun.

Elizabeth Abbott attracted Gabriel, and they became engaged on the spot. Some say that the marriage actually took place at the same time, but the truth appears to be that his family went along with the emigrants and Gabriel rigged up his father's pinnace and followed after. He came back from Guilford with his bride and outfit. Elizabeth is said to be the daughter of Robert Abbott of Branford, Ct.

The Coat of Arms adopted about 1800 by Samuel Abbott is spurious:- " He beareth GULES- a chevron between 3 pears -or-; crest- an unicorn's head couped-or- between two ostrich plumes-ar-gent- issuing out of a ducal coronet. By the name of Abbott-'Deo Patria Amiciae'".

In 1725, an older one, with the olive branches below, which was adopted in the New Hampshire branch, was gotten up by a Boston artist.

Charlotte Helen Abbott: Genealogist, Dressmaker, Naturalist

Charlotte Helen Abbott about town in 1920.

She was a quaint little figure, dashing about town in her worn-out clothes and faded shawl. Well past her 70th birthday, Charlotte Helen Abbott was still busily involved in the community. She knew more about Andover than most people, and in her witty, entertaining style she shared that information with the townspeople.

Born here in 1844, Charlotte was a descendent of an early Andover family. She graduated with the first class of Pynchard High School in 1859 and taught for a time in the local schools. She was also a dressmaker. Genealogy began as her hobby but it became her profession, the one for which she is best remembered. Her knowledge of the families of old Andover was colorfully expressed in numerous articles written for the Andover Townsman, the Boston Transcript and other publications. Her popular column appeared in the Townsman for more than 25 years. Her personal comments are comical. In an article about the elderly Hephzibah Chandler, she tells us "Hephzy" suffered from an ailment she calls "Andover rheumatism." Referring to the landholdings of a Scottish family, she writes: "Nobody but a Scotchman would lease land for 1000 years . . ." Her work, still widely recognized, is now accessible to researchers at the Historical Society's Underhill Library.

Charlotte was not exempt from her own humor. She called herself a "rag artist," alluding to her occupation as a dressmaker. Callers were greeted with this message on her door: "Visitors are welcome—if they can catch the bird at home."

She loved the outdoors and frequently walked through the Andover countryside. An expert on astronomy and the rare trees and flowers of Andover, she wrote articles on these subjects. She was a member of the Andover Historical Society, the Andover Natural History Society and the Women's Relief Corps. At her urging, Pioneer Boulder, a memorial to the settlers of Andover, was erected at South Cemetery. When women gained the right to vote in 1920, Charlotte, then 76, was among the very first Andover women to register. She completed her final column for the Townsman just days before her death in 1921.

Charlotte Helen Abbott filled a special place in this community. With knowledge and wit she connected Andover's past to its present and created a legacy for the future.
