The GRAVES FAMILY
of ANDOVER

Samuel(1) Graves, a pioneer of Lynn in 1629, the founder of the Graves' line in the Massachusetts Bay colony, had a grant west of "Floating Bridge", which was known at the time as Graves' End. It was on the site of the present Glenmere. Samuel was father of Thomas(2) of Lynn and Mark (2) of Andover. Samuel was evidently a man of means, for he gave the colony £ 300 in 1655.

According to a deposition, Mark (2) was born about 1620. He was a weaver by trade and came to Andover in 1665, with his wife, Amy. They lived on a homestead at the end of the present High street. Amy died on Feb. 20, the year he arrived here, and Sam took for a second wife, Elizabeth, widow of John Farrington, whom he married Nov. 14, 1667. Elizabeth was a daughter of Wm. Knight and his wife, Elizabeth Ballard, widow of Wm. (1) Ballard of Lynn.

Mark Graves and Elizabeth left Andover about 1684 and went to Manchester, Mass. Elizabeth, according to probate, was dead by 1708. Mark lived to about 1719. His son, Ebenezer, a sea captain, wound up his father's affairs. The estate in North Andover, which Mark and Elizabeth owned together, they gave to Edward Farrington, a step-son of Mark's. The South Parish property went to the Graves' children.

Mark(2) Graves and his 1st wife, Amy----, had:-

Abraham(5), b. 1649; m. in Concord, June 28, 1677, Ann Haywood; she d. and he m. 2nd, Sarah Duntin of Reading, Sept. 12, 1705; she d. at 91, June 21, 1750. Abraham d. in Andover, June 16, 1729. Sarah left personal estate to Wm. Lovejoy, who lived on the site of the present Locke place on Elm street and owned the land down High street, then Lovejoy Lane, to the bounds of the Graves' estate, which went down to Marland Village. There were two houses on the Graves' land.
