

In The City

by Sierra Heneghan

Cold ocean waves lap up the sides of the harbor walls
Glistening lights glow like fireflies on the buildings
 The night makes the city seem peaceful
The city is a castle, standing tall on its island
 Surrounded by the blackness of the water
 The night makes the city seem serene
The full moon shines like a thousand suns
The stars sparkle like a diamond necklace
 The night makes the city seem gentle
Snow falls lightly like an angel's blanket
 The darkness covers all
The city makes the night seem beautiful
