

Our Last Chance

by Leah Giacchetto

We slowly walked into the hospital room

I filled with tears

She lay on the bed

Not able to talk

Or make any sound

She listened

The thing I know she did best

I sat by the bed

And kissed her forehead

Just as she used to do to me

My mom explained

How this was

our last chance

To say,

Goodbye