

Swirling Waves of Elegance

by Rebecca Cheng

Clawing eagerly at powdered gold
Slyly stealing some away each time
Hides it underneath the sparkling blue garments
With priceless treasures
And smooth, glassy jewels.

Silk garments whirl
Brush against the magnificent treasures
Glistening waves of aqua green
Foamy white sewn to the undergarments
With glittering silky ribbons
Seem to float like angels' wings.

That swirling collection of rare beauty
That glittering, indescribable hue
That is the ocean.