

Lucy

by Haley Santomas

Lucy, Lucy, of the waves
Fell into the sea one day
Lost her footing on the dock
Tried to, but she couldn't stop
No one saw her, none at all
No one saw dear Lucy fall
She swam back up and hit her head
Upon a dock, or so it's said
She couldn't breathe, she couldn't see
Of water she could not break free
Oh, what, I wonder, could have been If dear Lucy had not breathed in
And in my home under the waves
I think of how I wasn't saved
Me, Me of the waves
Fell into the sea one day
